About the British Menopause Society (BMS)

The BMS is a registered charity and scientific society which is directed at the medical profession with membership open to healthcare professionals and others specialising in post reproductive health.

The BMS was founded in 1989 and is dedicated to advancing education in all matters related to the menopause, through lectures, conferences, meetings, exhibitions and publications including the Journal of the BMS, Menopause International.

The challenge of menopause management is increasing. As most British women can expect more than 30 years of postmenopausal life, the consequences for immediate and long-term healthcare are significant. The BMS aims to increase awareness of these healthcare issues and promote optimal management through its activities.
